Glossary of Common Referencing Terms

Bibliography:

A list of sources used (both referenced in-text and otherwise) in writing a research paper.

Citing:

The process of acknowledging the sources of your information and ideas.

Date:

This is the publication date of a source of information. Usually enclosed the date within parentheses for both in-text citations and for the reference list.

DOI (doi):

Some electronic content, such as online journal articles, is assigned a unique number called a Digital Object Identifier (DOI or doi). Items can be tracked down online using their doi.

In-Text Citation:

A brief note at the point where information is used from a source to indicate where the information came from. An in-text citation should always match more detailed information that is available in the Reference List.

Paraphrasing:

Taking information that you have read and putting it into your own words.

Plagiarism:

Taking, using, and passing off as your own, the ideas or words of another.

Quoting:

The copying of words of text originally published elsewhere. Direct quotations generally appear in quotation marks and end with a citation.

Reference:

Details about one cited source.

Reference List:

Contains details on ALL the sources cited in a text or essay and supports your research and/or premise. Retrieval Date:

Used for websites where content is likely to change over time (e.g., Wikis), the retrieval date refers to the date you last visited the website.

Standard APA Abbreviations

- Standard abbreviations may be used in your citations.
- A list of acceptable, commonly used abbreviations can be found in the Publication manual of the American Psychological Association, 7th ed., pp. 306-307.
- Some of the more often used examples are listed here:

Edition	ed.
Editor(s)	Ed.(Eds.)
et alii, et aliae (and others) - from Latin	et al.
No date of publication	n.d.
Number	No.
Page(s)	p. (pp.)
Paragraph(s)	para(s).
Part	Pt.
Revised edition	Rev. ed.
Supplement	Suppl.
Technical Report	Tech. Rep.
Translator(s)	Trans.
Volume (as in Vol. 4)	Vol.
Volumes (as in 4 Vols.)	Vols.
"vol." to be exclusively used for referencing books, reports, and similar materials that contain volume information, except in the case of journals.

Introduction

When incorporating material from published sources into your work, it is important to appropriately acknowledge them in two ways:

1. Mention your sources briefly within the text, known as in-text citations.
2. Create a comprehensive, alphabetically arranged list of your sources at the end of your work, referred to as a reference list.

From April 2023, EAHM follows the APA 7th edition referencing style.

What is APA and the purpose of this guide?

This guide serves as a starting point with APA formatting. APA referencing style was created by the American Psychological Association and contains a set of guidelines to facilitate communication in psychology and related fields by promoting clarity of expression and by standardising the organisation and content of research articles and book chapters in these disciplines. It is easier to write about research when you know what information to present, the order in which to present it, and even the style in which to present it. Likewise, it is easier to read about research when it is presented in familiar and expected ways.

What's New in the 7th Edition of APA?

The Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association provides more detailed information and many excellent examples. The most recent edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association is the 7th edition and available in.

Below is a summary of the major changes in the 7th edition of the APA Publication Manual.

Essay Format:

- Font - While you still can use Times New Roman 12, you are free to use other fonts. Calibri 11, Arial 11, Lucida Sans 10, and Georgia 11 are all acceptable.
- Headers - No running headers are required for student papers.
- Tables and Figures - There is a standardized format for both tables and figures.

Style, Grammar, Usage:

- Singular "they" required in two situations: when used by a known person as their personal pronoun or when the gender of a singular person is not known.
- Use only one space after a sentence-ending period.

Citation Style:

- Developed the 'Four Elements of a Reference' (Author, Date, Title, Source) to help writers to create references for source types not explicitly examined in the APA Manual.
- Three or more authors can be abbreviated to First author, et al. on the first citation.
- Up to 20 authors are spelled out in the References List.
- Publisher location is not required for books.
- Ebook platform, format, or device is not required for eBooks.
- Library database names are generally not required.
- Hyperlinks -
 - No "doi:" prefix, simply include the doi.
 - All hyperlinks retain the https://
 - Links can be "live" in blue with underline or black without underlining.

Be sure to consult the APA Style website for detailed standards and procedures.

Why reference?

Referencing is important in all academic and research work for the following reasons:

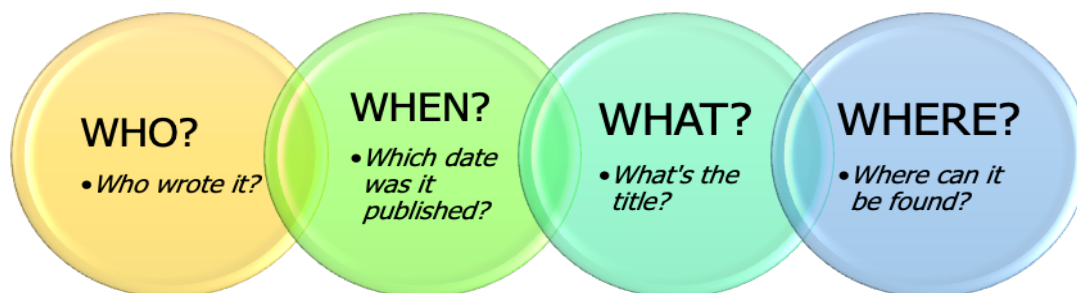

- to show that you have researched/ read widely and found relevant information.
- to support any claims, you have made through reference to an authoritative author on the subject.
- to enable readers of your work to trace the sources used and draw their own conclusions from the original works which you have cited.
- referencing is generally part of the grading rubrics for your assignments.
- to avoid being accused of plagiarism. This is using someone else's work as your own without acknowledging it. If you do not acknowledge your source(s) you may be guilty of academic misconduct. For more details, please refer to the Student Handbook

When and how do you need to reference?

In APA, you must "cite" sources that you have paraphrased, quoted, summarised or otherwise used to write your research paper. Whenever you include any or all of the following information, you must add citations:

- mention of a theory, fact, argument or viewpoint attributable to a specific person.
- statistics, examples or case studies.
- illustrations or musical examples.
- direct quotations/ paraphrase.

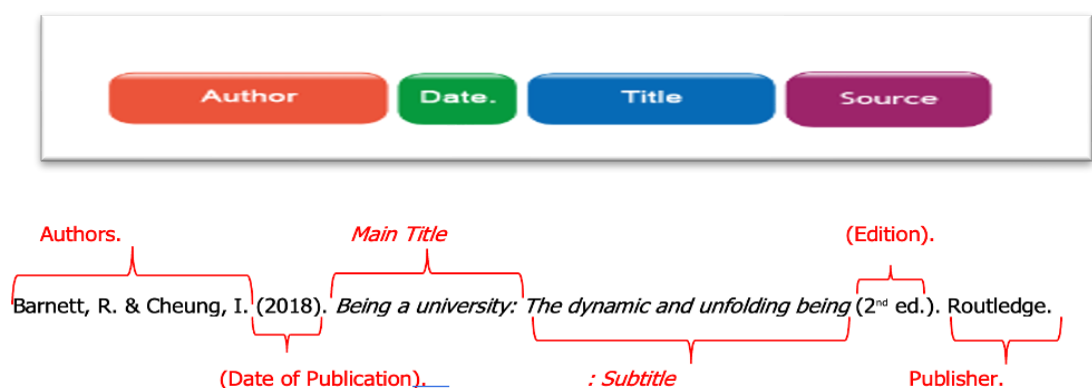

The principle of referencing is to answer these basic questions about your source.

Cite your sources in two places:

1. In-text citation in the body of your paper that indicates the who and when (the author's family name, followed by the year of publication.) Do not include the author's initials in the citation.
2. Include the complete citation list at the end of your paper in the references section.

In the sequence of:-

The reference list is organised according to the author's last name in alphabetic (A-Z) order. Always use a hanging indent to separate each list item.

What NOT to cite

Common knowledge is information that is generally known to a reader so does not require a reference, e.g.

1. Paris is the capital of France.
2. The sky is blue.
3. The sun rises in the East and sets in the West.
4. Water is H₂O.

Whenever you are in doubt as to whether information you wish to use is common knowledge or not, please check with your course lecturer or subject experts with the EAHM faculty.

Quoting, Paraphrasing and Summarising

Quoting

Quoting involves the act of directly copying content from the primary source and enclosing it within quotation marks, which is also referred to as a direct quote. It is important to acknowledge the use of and provide proper citation to the original source and include page numbers to enable the reader to pinpoint the exact location of the quoted text. Also remember to use quotations sparingly, they should only be used to illustrate your understanding of the main concepts.

For quotes that have less than 40 words, keep them within the existing text, enclosed by double quotation marks.

For quotes exceeding 40 words, avoid using quotation marks altogether. Present the quote in a distinct, indented paragraph.

Page references should be included as 'p.' for a single page or 'pp.' for multiple pages, all in lowercase, for example, pp. 34-35.

For example: The authors give a list of options of verbs to avoid the over use of others.

Instead of writing "Peter Jones says" throughout your paper, consider some of these verb choices: asserts, states, believes, contends, emphasises, confirms, points out..... Not all the words in this list are synonyms; you cannot substitute confirms for believes. First, select the verb that most accurately conveys the writer's relationship to his or her material. Then, when appropriate, vary word choice as well as sentence structure. (Seyler & Brizee, 2019, p. 300)

Paraphrasing

Paraphrasing is the practice of expressing specific content from the source material in your own words while retaining the original meaning. It is essential to acknowledge the source to give credit to the original author.

- When paraphrasing, make sure to maintain the coherence of the text.

Page numbers should be cited using 'p.' for a single page or 'pp.' for multiple pages, in lowercase, such as pp. 34-35. especially important when an interested reader locate the relevant section in a long or complex text e.g. Research shows that efficient use of library resources improves academic achievement (Brown, 2019, p.23).

Summarising

Summarising is the act of creating summaries that is aimed at providing a broad overview of an entire work/article/research rather than focusing on a specific section of text therefore page numbers are not required.

e.g. Training students to develop their unique, clear and concise style of writing is fundamental not only for good grades in school but also to help students think clearly and convey the ideas to others Kilcrease (2021).

Types of Authors

There are two categories of authors: - individuals and groups/companies/organisations. Whenever the author isn't a personal name find out whether the author a company or organisation e.g.

- Government bodies (such as the Dubai) are often the official "author" of the works they publish.
- Companies are usually the authors of their web pages e.g. Jumeirah International LLC

Write the company's name in full, the first time you use them in the in-text, then you can use an acronym for subsequent in-text mentions.

Always write the name in full in the reference list not acronym e.g. National Health Service. (2019).

This table shows who to consider as the author for various audio-visual media types:
Media Type	Include as the author	Media Type	Include as the author
Film	Director	Classical music album or song	Composer
TV series	Executive producer(s)	Modern music album or song	Recording artist
TV series episode	Writer and director of episode	Artwork	Artist
Podcast	Host or executive producer	Online streaming video	Person or group who uploaded the video
Podcast episode	Host of episode	Photograph	Photographer
Webinar	Instructor

Order of Authors

Noteworthy about authors: -

- Do not change the order of the authors within a citation. You should leave them in the original order they appear in the work.
 - Your reference list will be placed in alphabetical order based on the name of the first author for each reference.

- When citing an author with a hyphenated first name in order of appearance, use the first letter with period, then present the second letter preceded by a hyphen. E.g.:
- Author is Chuan-Pei XU - Reference citation style is Xu, C.P.
- Author is Riley James-Burns - Reference citation style is JamesBurns, R.
- If you cite more than one work in the same set of brackets in-text, your citations will go in the same order in which they will appear in your reference list (i.e. alphabetical order, then oldest to newest for works by the same author) and be separated by a semi-colon. E.g.:
 - (Corbin, 2015; James & Waterson, 2017; Smith et al., 2016).
 - (Corbin, 2015; 2018)
 - (Queensland Health, 2017a; 2017b)
- Use only the surnames of your authors in text (e.g., Smith & Brown, 2014) - however, if you have two authors with the same surname who have published in the same year, then you will need to use their initials to distinguish between the two of them (e.g., K. Smith, 2014; N. Smith, 2014). Otherwise, do not use initials in text.

General Rules for Dates of Publication

- Enclose the date within parentheses for both in-text citations and for the reference list.
- For the date in the reference list, enclose the date with parentheses and followed with a period.
- For dates of newspapers, magazines, reports, audio visual media which often contain month values, spell out the name of the month.
- For books use the copyright date.
- For journals use the journal's year the specific volume was published.
- For works with no date, use "(n.d.)" with no spaces between the 'n' or 'd.' Use for both in-text citations and in the reference list.
- For categories that include the year, month, day, or season, always put the year first. Place a comma, after the year then the month and date or season.
 - (2023, August 9).
 - (2022, Winter).

General Rules for Titles

Capitalisation

For all sources other than periodical titles (that is, newspapers, magazines, and scholarly journals), capitalise the first word of the title and subtitle and proper nouns only. Do not capitalise the rest (see examples below).

Setting the table: Lessons and inspiring from one of the world's leading entrepreneurs

All major words in periodical titles should be capitalised for example,

Gulf News, Psychology Today, Journal of Hospitality and Tourism Research.

Italics

Titles are italicised for the following information sources/documents.

- Books and ebooks titles (Use italics and capitalise the first word of the title and subtitle and proper nouns only)
- Journal title and volume number (Use italics and capitalise all major words)
- Titles of reports, brochures, posters, webpages and any other stand-alone works.
- Examples:-
- Worldwide Hospitality and Tourism Themes, 10(2), pp.88-99
- Student cheating and plagiarism in the Internet era: A wake-up call
- A net zero roadmap for travel & tourism Proposing a new target framework for the travel & tourism sector.

Volume and Issue Numbers

APA Style does not use "Volume", "Vol.", "v.", "Issue," "No.", or related terms. Instead, use italics for the volume number.

354(2)

354 is the volume number (in italics) and 2 is the issue number.

Page Numbers

Use "p." and "pp." when citing edited book chapters, newspaper or magazine articles. Otherwise, page numbers should stand alone; they should not be preceded by "p." or "pp." Online periodical where page numbers are not given

Art Culinaire, 77(2).

77 is the volume number followed by the issue number of the magazine or journal with a period.

Undated Sources

Use (n.d.) (for "no date") in your citation.

Reference list citation

Multiplier Technologies. (n.d.). The need and impact of international business etiquette. Global HR Practices <https://www.usemultiplier.com/blog/international-business-etiquettemanners-and-culture>

In-text citation:- (Multiplier Technologies, n.d.)

Secondary Citations (Citing a Source within a Source)

If you use the ideas of an author which you did not directly read yourself, but saw referred to or cited in another publication, this is considered an indirect reference and needs to be treated as a secondary source.

Scenario: You read a 2022 article written by Parikh and Dutt that cites an earlier article, by Krishna. You want to cite Klein's article, but you have not read Klein's article itself.

Reference list citation

Parikh, P., & Dutt, C. S. (2022). Impacts of staff demographics on complaint management behaviour in five-star hotels in Dubai. International Hospitality Review, 36(2), 199-219. <https://doi.org/10.1108/IHR-03-2021-0016>

Your Reference list will contain the article you read, by Krishna, Parikh and Dutt, 2022. Your Reference list will NOT contain a citation for Krishna's article because you have not read the work, only Parikh and Dutt's interpretation of it.

In-text citation

Krishna's study (as cited in Parikh & Dutt, 2022) found that...

Your in-text citation gives credit to Krishna and shows the source in which you found Krishna's ideas.

DOIs and URLs

- Present both DOIs and URLs as hyperlinks (i.e., beginning with "http://" or "https://"). Links should be live if the work is to be published or read online.
- The current format to be used for DOIs is: "https://doi.org/", e.g. <https://doi.org/10.1037/a0040251>
- Do not place a full stop after the DOI or URL.
- APA prefers short DOIs and URLs.

If you need to shorten the DOI, use the short DOI service <http://shortdoi.org> as only one short DOI is created for a particular DOI. If you need to shorten a URL, any URL shortening service that links to the correct resource is acceptable, e.g. Bitly URL Shortener.

Never use a URL like this:

https://www.google.com/search?q=chatgpts+authors&rlz=1C1GCEU_enAE1020AE1020&biw=1536&bih=730&tbn=aws&sxsrf=APwXEddZevUV9penxq0NGR7eGUSqFMevJQ%3A1684401161396&ei=CexlZNRZF4aA9u8PwJ2cyAc&ved=0ahUKewiagomnw_7-AhUGgP0HHcAOB3kQ4dUDCA0&uact=5&oq=chatgpts+authors&gs_lcp=Cgxnnd3Mtd2l6LW5ld3MQAzIHCAAQDRCABDIHCAAQDRCABDIHCAAQCBAAEAOyCggAEAgQHhANEaoyCAgAEAgQHhANOgsIABCAABBCxAXCDAToICAAQgAAQOsQM6CwgAEIoFELEDEIMBoGoIABCKBRcXxBDQg0IABCKBRcXxAXCDARBD0ggIABCKBRcXxZohCAAQgAAQOCJoGCAAQHhANOggIABAAEFA0QDzoGCAAQFhAeOggIABAWFEB4QCIAAWL8uYPg4aABwAHgAgAHsAogBjB-SAQgwLJIuMTAuNJgBAKABACABAQ&scient=gws-wiz-news

General Rules for In-Text Citations

Using references within text

For APA Style, you use the authors' surnames only and the year in text. If you are using a direct quote, you will also need to use a page number.

Narrative citations:

If an in-text citation has the authors' names as part of the sentence (that is, outside of brackets) place the year and page numbers in brackets immediately after the name, and use 'and' between the authors' names: Jones and Smith (2020, p. 29)

Parenthetical citations:

If an in-text citation has the authors' names in brackets use "&" between the authors' names : (Ramadan & Karanikola, 2021, p. 29).

Note: Some instructors want page numbers for all citations, while some only want page numbers with direct quotes. Check with your lecturer to see what you need to do for your assignment. If the direct quote starts on one page and finishes on another, include the page range (Jones & Smith, 2020, pp. 29-30).

1 author

John (2023) found that the COVID-19 pandemic drove the growth of hyperlocal businesses in India, which utilise local businesses and advanced logistics to meet customer demands within small geographic areas, particularly in sectors like groceries and pharmacy. (p. 179).

The author stated "the pandemic accelerated the growth of such services due to the inherent restrictions it imposes on mobility and physical access " (John, 2023p. 179).

2 authors

Jones and Smith (2020) found that "the mice disappeared within minutes" (p. 29).

The authors anticipated that "in the future, GMs are expected to employ new technologies to face increased competition and changing consumer demands such as ways to better market their properties and ease processes." (Ramadan & Karanikola, 2021, p. 34).

For 3 or more authors, use the first author and "et al." for all in-text citations
The Alrawadieh et al.(2021) findings indicated that future revenue managers will need to possess advanced technological skills to adapt to these changing digital landscapes.
(Alrawadieh et al., 2021).

If you cite more than one work in the same set of brackets in text, your citations will go in the same order in which they will appear in your reference list (i.e. alphabetical order, then oldest to newest for works by the same author) and be separated by a semi-colon. E.g.:

- (Creswell, 2014; Schindler, 2020; Bryman et al., 2022).
- (Creswell, 2018; 2020)
- (World Tourism Organisation, 2022a; 2022b)

- Use only the surnames of your authors in text (e.g., Smith & Brown, 2014) - however, if you have two authors with the same surname who have published in the same year, then you will need to use their initials to distinguish between the two of them (e.g., K. Smith, 2014; N. Smith, 2014). Otherwise, do not use initials in text.

Missing Information

While referencing you will come across certain material that has some of the normal referencing elements missing, i.e. no date of publication, no author etc. When this happens, you may need to change your citation format and order slightly. If you cannot find something like a link, DOI number, volume number, etc. you may omit that information.

However, the title looks in the What position, is how it should look in the Who/author position:

- Write the title in sentence case.
- If the source requires the title to be italicised, you need to italicise it in the author position.
- If the title of the source is not italicised in the reference, use double quotation marks around the title in the in-text citation.
- If the title is long, shorten it for the in-text citation.
- If the title includes a [Format], include this in the author position as well.
- If you're unsure, check the guide, or ask your liaison librarian.

See below for examples for how to cite sources missing pieces of information.

If you are unsure how to format a citation, contact an instructor or librarian for assistance.

"#$%& Resources with unknown or anonymous authors may not be reliable/authoritative; consider using alternative sources.

Missing element	Document	Solution	Reference list entry	In-text citation
No author	For a book, brochure or report	If no individual or corporate author is named, use the title as the author	Title. (Date). Source. Example: College bound seniors. (2001). College Board Press. Taming inflation. (2023, October 3). Gulf Today, p.13.	(Title, year). Title (year) ... (College bound seniors, 2001) College bound seniors (2001) ("Taming inflation", 2023)
	For an article, chapter of a book or web page			"Taming inflation" (2023)
No date		Use n.d. (which stands for no date) in place of the date	Author, A. A. (n.d.). Title. Source	(Author, n.d.). Author (n.d.) ...
No title		Describe the work in square brackets.	Author. (Date). [Description of document]. Source	(Author, year). Author (year)

No source		Cite as personal communication	No reference list entry	(C. C. Communicator, personal communication, month day, year). C. C. Communicator (personal communication, month day, year)

Reference list

What is a reference list?

- It is a list of all your sources you have cited.
- A number of elements must be present in the reference for an item to be easily identified. This includes author, date, title and source.
- The reference is located at the end of your assignment.
- Citations/references need to be listed in alphabetical order by author's family name.
- If the reference list contains two or more entries by the same author, list them in chronological order, in order of publication date.
- It should have a title "References".
- Some assignments will require that you provide a bibliography rather than a reference list. Please seek specific advice from your course instructor.
- References need to be consistent in layout and punctuation.
- Do not use double spacing in the reference list. Use single spacing with a space between each source.
- Use a hanging indent for each reference entry.

How to construct ... a reference list

Do not number the entries and do not use bullet points. Mix all formats in one sequence: books, periodical articles, multi-media items, website articles. An exception is images: when you have several image references, make a separate sequence below the reference list, and head it Images. See below example of reference list.

Parts of a reference for a BOOK	Parts	Where to find the information
	Names / Authors / Editors Adams, T.M., Combs, P., & Williams, J.D.	On the title page of the book; editors will be identified as such, otherwise assume any names are authors
	Date of publication (2005)	On the —verso — the page after/behind the title page; look for a copyright symbol © and use the most recent date listed after it
	Title Customer service knowledge:	On the title page of the book (do not take the title from the cover)
	Sub-title Aiming for perfection.	On the title page of the book; usually written in smaller letters; may be above or below the main title; separate from the main title by colon space
	Edition statement (if it is a revised version) (5 th ed.).	On the title page, cover or verso
	Publisher Brocard Press.	Almost always on the title page at the bottom, so look there first and use what is mentioned there; if there is no publisher at the bottom of the title page, then look at the verso; publisher names may have the words —Press or —Company or —LLC ; sometimes a publisher is a government department or association. —Library of Congress or —British Library are not publishers; do not use them.

Article title Tourism in Croatia:	At the top of the article; never take the title from the table of contents
Sub-title Challenges and benefits)	At the top of the article, sometimes in smaller font. Magazine articles sometimes have longish statements after the title: do not include these as sub-titles
Journal or magazine title Research and Development Magazine,	On the cover or table of contents page at the beginning of the periodical
Volume number, number, followed by issue number for magazines 26(2),	On the cover or table of contents page of the journal or magazine; sometimes spine; look for the words —volume and —number or —issue Volume 46, number 3 Magazines may only have an issue number, with no volume Issue 315 Magazines sometimes have neither volume nor issue number
Page range (the first and last page of the specific article) 115127.	In the article
Example Shipton, H., Kougiannou, N., Do, H., Minbashian, A., Pautz, N. & King, D. (2023). Organisational voice and employee-focused voice: Two distinct voice forms and their effects on burnout and innovative behavior. Human Resource Management Journal, 1-20. https://doi.org/10.1111/1748-8583.12518
Parts	Where to find the information
Names / Authors Shipton, H., Kougiannou, N., Do, H., Minbashian, A., Pautz, N. & King, D.	Usually at the top of the article; sometimes at the end of the article but don't look too hard as other, irrelevant, people are also sometimes mentioned. If an author is not prominently named then make the reference start with article title. A statement with the word —by is most conclusive.
Publication date (2023).	At the top of the article, if there is no date at the top immediately below the article. If no date is mentioned, use (n.d.).
Article title and sub-title Organisational voice and employee-focused voice: Two distinct voice forms and their effects on burnout and innovative behavior.	At the top of the article. Look for the title of the article where your information was found; if there is a section title at the top of the page (International News, Research, etc.) ignore it and use the most specific title.
Journal title Human Resource Management Journal,	Usually at the top of the webpage.

Parts of a reference for an ARTICLE in a web-based journal;

Volume and number	The volume and issue numbers at the top of the article. If there is no prominently mentioned volume or issue number, then omit.
Page range 1-20	If the article is in html format there will be no page numbers so just omit this. If the article is in PDF format, there will be page numbers so include the range just as you would for a print magazine or journal article.
Retrieval statement https://doi.org/10.1111/1748-8583.12518	Copy and paste the full URL (from your web browser's address slot.) for the specific article from which you took data or information.

20+ authors	If the source has twentyone or more authors, list the first nineteen authors followed by three dots (. . .) and then the last author.

Citing Books

Book citations generally include information such as author(s), publication year, title, any special information, and the publisher.

- Authors are listed by their last name, followed by their initials.
- Titles are in italics and only the first word and proper nouns are capitalized.
- Special information can include editors, translators, illustrators, volume numbers, editions, etc.

Below is an overview of APA formatting for various types of books, including in-text citations and examples.

Book Type	Reference List Format	In-Text Citation Format	Example
Print Book	Author, A. A. (Year). Title of Book (Edition if not the first). Publisher.	(Author, Year)	(Alderaawi, 2023)
Digital Book	Author, A. A. (Year). Title of Book [Ebook version]. DOI or URL	(Author, Year)	(Silva, 2022)
Chapter in Edited Book	Chapter Author, A. A. (Year). Title of chapter. In A. A. Editor (Ed.), Title of Book (pp. xx-xx). Publisher.	(Chapter Author Last Name, Year)	(Satar, 2019)
Religious Text	Title of Religious Text (Year) (Version if applicable). Publisher.	(Title of Religious Text, Year)	(New King Bible, 2020)
Set of Books	Author, A. A. or Editor, A. A. (Ed.). (Year). Title of Book Set (Volume or book number). Publisher.	(Author, Year)	(Tsarfati & Yohn, 2020)
Translated Book	Author, A. A. (Year). Title of Book (Translated by B. B. Translator]. Publisher.	(Author, Year)	(Pavlovich, 2022)

Books (Print and Electronic)

Notice from the table above that books in general, regardless of the format - whether they are in print or electronic format, often follow the same format.

If the book includes a DOI or if you found the item online, include the DOI or hyperlink in the reference after the publisher's name. If you found the eBook in a library database such as ProQuest or UN-WTO eLibrary or your personal eBook collection, do not include a hyperlink.

Format and Order

Author, A. A. (Year of Publication). Title of the book: Subtitle also starts with a capital letter (extra information such as editors, translators, editions, etc.). Publisher.

Reference List Example:

Angelou, M. (1970). I know why the caged bird sings. Random House.

In-text Citation Examples Angelou
(1970) expressed that ...

...(Angelou, 1970).

...(Angelou, 1970, p. 154).

When referencing a chapter from an edited book with multiple authors, compiled by an editor, it is important to provide a citation for the specific chapter you have used. However, if you are citing the entire book as a whole then there is no need to cite each individual chapter separately.

When citing a chapter, begin by providing information specific to that chapter, followed by details about the complete book. To indicate the relationship between the chapter and the larger work, use the word "In" between them.

On the references page, include the page numbers for the chapter using "pp." If the quotation encompasses multiple pages, the in-text citation should also include "pp." If only one page is relevant for the citation, use "p."

Format and Order

Author, A. A. (Year of Publication). Title of chapter. In E. E. Editor & F. F. Editor (Eds.), Title of book (pp. pages of chapter). Publisher. Reference List Example:

Jamgade, S. (2021). Catalytic effect of tourism in peacebuilding: Sustainability and peace through tourism. In J.T. da Silva, Z. Breda & F. Carbone (Eds.), Role and Impact of Tourism in Peacebuilding and Conflict Transformation (pp. 29-45). IGI Global Publishing.

In-text Citation Examples:

Jamgade (2021) states that ...

...(Jamgade, 2021).

...(Jamgade, 2021, p. 33).

Edited Book with No Author

When no authors are clearly mentioned and only information about the editors is available, you should use the editors' details in place of the authors. Include "(Eds.)" if there are multiple editors involved, and "(Ed.)" if there is a single editor.

However, if there is an author present, the editor's information should be listed after the title, similar to how you would include information about translators and illustrators.

Format and Order

Editor, A. A., & Editor, B. B. (Eds.). (Year of Publication). Title of the book: Subtitle also starts with a capital letter (extra information such as editors, translators, editions, etc.). Publisher.

Reference List Example

Aronson, M., & Campbell, P. J. (Eds.). (2009). War is...: Soldiers, survivors, and storytellers talk about war. Candlewick Press.

In-text Citation Examples

According to Aronson and Campbell (2009) ...

... (Aronson & Campbell, 2009).

... (Aronson & Campbell, 2009, p. 158).

Translated Book

After the title, if the books had translators involved, you should list them by their first initials followed by their last names. To indicate their role as translators, use the abbreviation "Trans."

Format and Order

Author, A. A. (Year of Publication). Title of the book: Subtitle also starts with a capital letter (T. T. Translator, Trans.). Publisher. Reference List Example
 Kondō M. (2014). The life-changing magic of tidying up: The Japanese art of decluttering and organizing (C. Hirano, Trans.). Ten Speed Press.

In-text Citation Examples

Kondō
 (2014) shares that ...

...(Kondō, 2014).

...(Kondō, 2014, p. 112).

Set of Books (Multivolume)

When citing a set of books or a single book from a set, the process is similar to citing other books. The main difference is that you need to include the volume number after the title of the book.

If there is no specific author mentioned, you should begin the citation by listing the editors' names followed by "(Eds.)" if there are multiple editors, or "(Ed.)" if there is a single editor.

Here's an example of how to format a citation for a book from a set:

Format and Order

Author, A. A. (Year of Publication). Title of book (Vol. or Vols.). Publisher.

Reference List Example

Tsarfati, A. & Yohn, S. (2022). By way of deception (Vol. 2). Harvest House Publishers.

In-text Citation Examples

Tsarfati & Yohn (2022) explored the ...

...(Tsarfati & Yohn, 2022).

Textbook

Citing textbooks generally follows the same rules as citing other books in APA style. Textbooks often have specific editions, which should be included following the title of the textbook.

Format and Order

Author, A. A. (Year of Publication). Title of book (number of edition). Publisher.

Reference List Example

Cooper, D.R., & Schindler, P. (2022). Business research methods (14th ed.). McGraw Hill.

In-text Citation Examples

Cooper and Schindler (2022) assert that ...

...(Cooper & Schindler, 2022).

...(Cooper & Schindler, 2022, p. 216).

Religious Text

The year of original publication of a religious work may be unknown or in dispute and is not included in the reference in those cases. However, versions of religious works such as the Bible may be republished; these republished dates are included at the end of the reference entry and within in-text citations.

If the religious text has its own way of tracking text location (such as the Bible using books, chapters, and verses), use that information instead of page numbers.

Put the title of the work in italics.

Format and Order

Version Title. (Publication Year). Publisher. URL if available (Original work published Year)

Reference List Example:

New King James Bible. (2023). Thomas Nelson Publishers.

<https://www.biblegateway.com/versions/New-King-James-Version-NKJV-Bible/#booklist>
(Original work published 1982)

The Qur'an (M.A.S Abdel Haleem, Trans.). (2004). Oxford University Press.

In-text Citation Examples

According to the New King James Bible (1982/2023)...

...(New King James Bible, 1982/2023)).

...(New King James Bible, 1982/2023), Isaiah 40:31).

According to The Qur'an (2004)...

Moodle Lecture Slides, Presentations and Notes

Exercise caution when using these reference types. In academic settings, it is considered best practice to cite the primary source referenced by your instructor instead of relying solely on lecture notes. In cases where complete information is unavailable regarding the source of information, include as much as you can retrieve.

Sources such as Moodle recorded lectures and PowerPoints, are not available to people outside of EAHM. If the audience of your paper is your professor and/or classmates who have access to the content, use the following examples.

If your audience is not enrolled in your course or part of your institution and therefore does not have access to the content, cite the content as a Personal Communication.

Referencing Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI)

Generative artificial intelligence (AI) language models like ChatGPT, Copilot, and Midjourney can generate human-like text or image responses based on natural language inputs. However, the updated EAHM Academic Integrity Policy considers using AI models to generate content without acknowledging their use as a form of plagiarism. The policy provides students and staff guidelines within the accompanying Academic Integrity Policy for using text generating tools. Students should only use these tools if explicitly allowed by their course instructors for learning or research purposes. If unsure, students should seek clarification from teaching staff or Programme Leaders, as using these tools without permission may be considered an Academic Integrity violation. When an instructor allows you to use AI in your work, it is important to understand the technology's limitations and associated risks. For instance:

- ® Generative AI has the potential to generate incorrect or fabricated output.
- ® Generated AI output may contain ethically questionable content.
- ® AI-generated output may disregard the potential harm that certain words, phrases, or images can cause to specific segments of our community.
- ® AI-generated output lacks references, and if prompted to create references, they may be inaccurate or fabricated.
- ® Therefore, it is imperative to critically evaluate any output produced by AI, just as you would with any other academic source.

When incorporating the output of a generative AI programme or app into your work, it is important to cite the output following the referencing style conventions. However, citing output from a ChatGPT "chat" poses a challenge as the results are not retrievable by others. In cases like these, where the generated text is akin to sharing an algorithm's output, credit should be given to the author of the algorithm through a reference list entry and corresponding in-text citation. The prompt supplied to ChatGPT should be included in the text of your assignment report. The actual content that ChatGPT produced may be included in the appendix.

How to cite text generated by an AI tool (e.g., ChatGPT)

References List Citation

Developer. (Version Year). Name of generative AI tool (Version number)
[Type of AI Model]. URL of tool

Example

OpenAI. (2023). ChatGPT (September 25 version) [Large language model]. <https://chat.openai.com>

In-Text Citation	Example
(Quote or Paraphrase)	Given the prompt "Provide definitions, examples and uses of language models " the text generated by ChatGPT described them as "artificial intelligence systems designed to understand and generate human language. They learn patterns, structures, and relationships within text data to generate coherent and contextually appropriate human-like responses to text-based inputs or prompts" (OpenAI, 2023). When provided with a follow up prompt of "What are examples of large language models?" ChatGPT identified OpenAI's GPT-3, NVIDIA's Megatron, and Google's LaMDA as some of the examples of large language models (OpenAI, 2023; see Appendix A for the full transcript).

How to cite image(s) generated by an AI tool (e.g., Gencraft, DALL-E, Midjourney)

At EAHM, you are expected to use AI tools for assessments or online exams only when explicitly instructed by course lecturers. If permitted, acknowledge and reference the AI tools appropriately; see section ... of the Students' Handbook/Catalogue for details.

For tools like Gencraft, Stable Diffusion, MidJourney, and DALL-E:-

- Cite each image separately when using multiple images from the same tool.
- Follow APA 7th edition citation format as traditional images and figures.

- Format and order

Organisation. (organisation followed by full stop) (Year). (in round brackets, followed by full stop) Title of AI tool (in italics) (Version, if available) (in round brackets) [Type of model]. (in square brackets followed by full stop).URL (permalink for direct access if possible) Last updated 03/08/2023

- Use the AI tool's permalink URL if available or use the generic homepage if not.

For example, if using an image of a sheep and a book, cite the AI tool similar to a direct quote in your work.

Reproducing the image in your work

If you are inserting the AI-generated image in your coursework, start with a figure number followed by an image title. Beneath the image, include a note with details about the prompt and the source (see example below). Remember to include the full citation in your References List.

Figure 3

Example of an AI-generated image

Citing Personal Communication

In academic writing, live, unpublished, unrecorded and unrecoverable events like interviews and class lectures are treated as personal communication because their information cannot be verified by readers. When citing emails, interviews, or class lectures, provide the communicator's initials, surname, and accurate date within parentheses in the main text. Personal communications: -

- ® should be used sparingly,
- ® cited in-text only, and not listed in the references.
- ® Use lower-case for "personal communication"
- ® Remember to mention the speaker's name and the specific date of the communication.

For instance, A. M. Raulson stated (personal communication, January 28, 2007) that... and T. J. Mavin mentioned (personal communication, April 15, 2009).

However, all published/retrievable interviews should be properly cited and included in the reference list. If an interview has a title, it should be listed after the year of publication. Additional information can be provided in [brackets] if needed. The original source where the interview was published should be provided, and the citation format should be chosen accordingly (e.g., print journal article, website). If the published interview does not have a title, a description of the interview should be included in [brackets].

Appendices

Supplementary materials, known as appendices, can enhance the content of the paper. Include an appendix only if it helps the readers in understanding, assessing, or reproducing the study or theoretical argument.

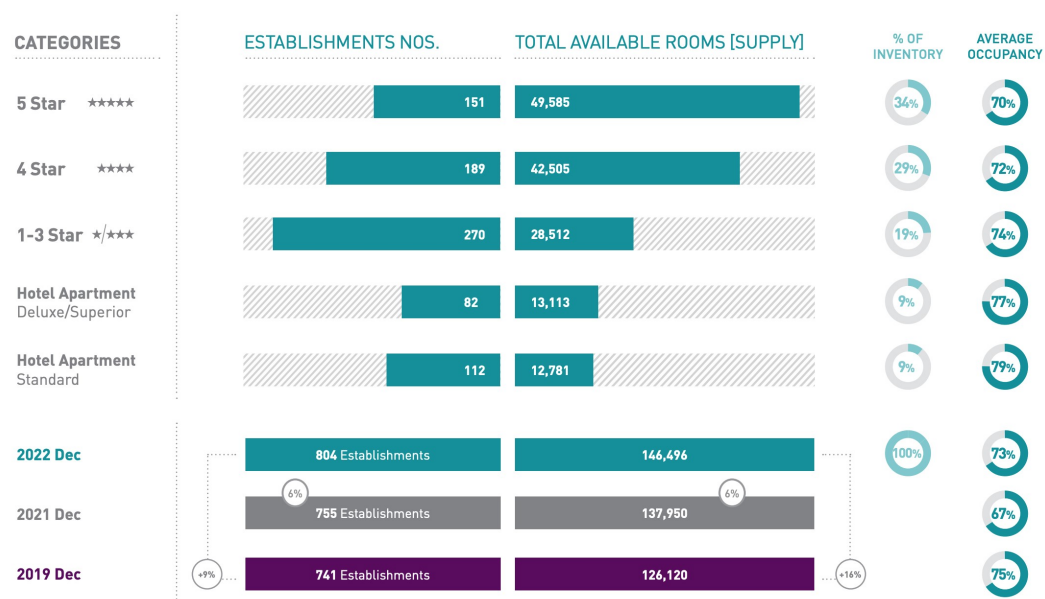

Appendices should be included after the reference list and labeled Appendix A.... Appendix B.....Appendix C....

Citing Tables and Figures

Figures include charts, graphs, photos, drawings, or any visual representation, excluding tables. Always include the following Components in your citations for figures and images:

Figure 1

Hotel inventory by category and performance KPIs: 2022, 2021, 2019 (Source: Dubai Department of Economy and Tourism, 2023, p. 7).

- Number: Write "Figure" or "Table" in bold font, flush left, followed by the number, for example, Figure 1.
- Title: Italicised title in Title Case below the figure number.
- Image Format: The visual representation (chart, graph, etc.).
- Legend: Explanation of symbols within the figure, if present.
- Note: Optional, provides additional context or information.

- General Rules:

- In-text references use "Figure" with the figure number (e.g., "As shown in Figure 1...").
- Two placement options: separate pages after the reference list or embedded within the text.

- Reproduced Figures:

- Include copyright attribution in the figure note for material from other sources.
- Permission statement ("Reprinted or Adapted with permission") required if obtained.
- Public domain or openly licensed material does not need a permission statement.

Noteworthy:

Seek permission to reproduce or adapt figures not created by you in academic work. ○
 Cite works under Creative Commons licenses accordingly. ○ Permission is required unless the figure is public domain or openly licensed.

Formatting Your APA Paper

All papers should start with a title page, following any guidelines provided by course instructor(s). If no guidance is provided, students should include the following:

- Title of the paper
- Author (Student (s) name(s))
- Author's affiliation (i.e. the university attended)
- Course code and name
- Instructor's name
- Due date, e.g. 6th March 2024

Note that if you have been informed that your work will be marked anonymously, you should not indicate your name or EAHM Student ID number.

What does an example APA paper look like?

APA Style offers sample student and professional papers, including a free annotated student sample paper.

Download and use this Word document as a template for your paper!

How do I make a hanging indent in Word?

1. Highlight the citation with your cursor.
2. Right click.
3. Select Paragraph.
4. Under Indentation, select Special and Hanging.

How can I save time formatting my paper?

Microsoft Word and Google Docs have a Format Painter tool that will copy and apply basic formatting to any text!

1. Highlight the formatting you want to apply.
2. Select Format Painter.
3. Highlight the text you want to change.

Note: If using the Format Painter on the Reference List, you'll need to go back and add italics where applicable.

Referencing Software

Referencing software allows you to store any potentially useful references in one convenient place and then generate in-text citations and reference lists/bibliographies in different referencing styles. The EAHM recommends using either of these two free products: Mendeley or Zotero. Click on the hyperlinks to learn more.
